Explorer map – 138

Distance – Arox. 4<sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> miles

Time to complete – allow up to 2½ hoursDog Friendly walk

Parking on road outside the Botolphs Bridge Inn

Botolph's Bridge is named after the English monk Saint Botolph. To learn more about the link between Saint Botolph and the village visit Botolph's Bridge Inn.

This walk is not for anyone who has difficulty in climbing steep hills or are not at a reasonable state of fitness.

The walk starts at the Botolph's Bridge Inn and is very level for the first mile and a half. The next half a mile is a steep climb of 489 feet. This is followed by a similar distance downhill before levelling out for the final stretch back.

The paths can be very muddy throughout the year after any period of rain.

Walk Number B2 – BOTOLPHS BRIDGE

Continue along footpath for about 20 minutes passing West Hythe Dam on your left. Look for path on your right. Turn right and cross wooden bridge.

Follow footpath as it climbs steadily upwards. Look out for wild animals in the enclosures to your left. To your right you will see some old Roman ruins. Take time to enjoy the view of the marshes and the castle at the top of the hill.
